

Swimming with the Sharks: How to Leverage an Academic Meeting as Junior Faculty

Sunday, April 22nd

8:45 AM - 9:15 AM

James Ahn – University of Chicago

Megan Fix – University of Utah

Leveraging an academic meeting can advance and accelerate your role in all facets of academic medicine. We will discuss individual stories of how this is apparent in:

- research
- leadership
- program administrative roles

Three common themes

1. Self-Reflection and goal setting
2. Leave your comfort zone
3. Follow through

In order to make the MOST of an academic meeting you need to:

1. Ditch your old mentality
2. Realize you are not an imposter
3. Realize that academic “stars” are just like you

Practically speaking, during the 2018 AA we challenge you to:

- Commit to meeting new people
- Commit to speaking up
- Commit to volunteering

Breakout sessions at the end for mentoring in these three areas. Please feel free to contact us:

ahnjam@gmail.com

meganfix@gmail.com